The Lion King tells the story of Simba. Simba is a young lion. His father is Mufasa and his best friend is Nala. They live in the Pride Lands in Africa. Mufasa hopes Simba can become a king.

When Simba grows up, he meets a meerkat, Timon and a warthog, Pumbaa. They live there happily without any worries.

Simba's uncle, Scar, tricks Simba and his best friend Nala to explore an elephant graveyard. Then, Scar makes Mufasa die when he is climbing up the wall.

After that, Simba flees the Pride Lands and meets a meerkat, Timon and a warthog, Pumbaa. They help Simba recover and grow up happily under the motto "hakuna matata", which means "no worries".

One day, Nala asks Simba to return home and tells him the Pride Lands have become a wasteland with not enough food and water. However Simba does not want to do that because he feels guilty of his father's death. It makes Nala disappointed and angry.

At last, Nala, Timon, and Pumbaa join him, and agree to help Simba fight against Scar.
